

Today is Thursday,
January 18, 2018

Scientists suggest that the saiga antelope uses its nose to filter and warm the cold air as it breathes in.

FYI...

- ▶ 1st period 8:55 – 9:40
- ▶ 2nd period 9:45 – 10:35
- ▶ 3rd period 10:40 – 11:25
- ▶ Lunch 11:25 – 11:55
- ▶ 4th period 12:00 – 12:45
- ▶ 5th period 12:50 – 1:35
- ▶ 6th period 1:40 – 2:25
- ▶ Pack 2:30 – 3:25

Ms. Fournier would like the following students to meet in the library today at 11:40

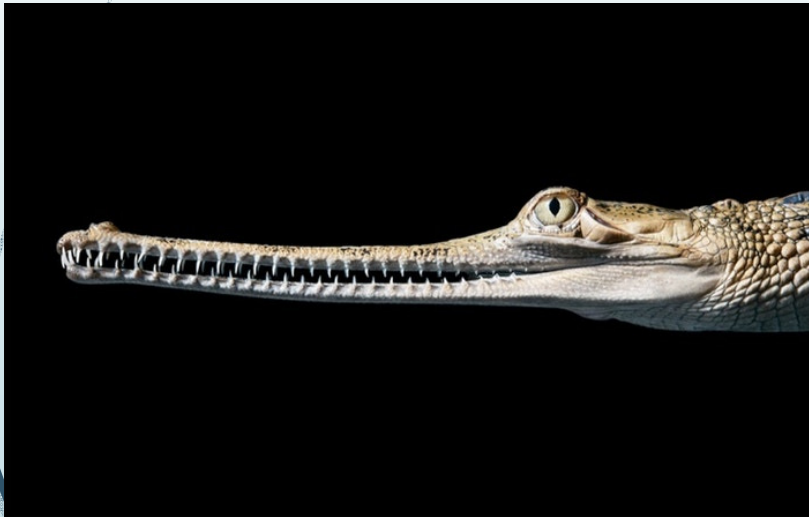

Please clean up after yourselves in the restrooms!

The Crowned Sifka Lemur, like all lemurs, live in Madagascar.

Deadlines and Due Dates and Dendrites, oh my!

- Mr. Ketter's Science Revisions and Make-ups: Monday 1/22
- US History final: Thursday, 1/25 and Friday, 1/26
- 7th grade LA group projects: Thursday, 1/25
- 7th grade Final Literary Essays: Friday, 1/26
- Coding Final VR Project: Friday 1/26
- Math 8 semester final: Tuesday, 1/30

Gharials are related to crocodiles and live around India and Pakistan.

Saturday 1/20 Basketball Game Schedules:

- Varsity Boys v STEM 12:30 at Ingraham
- Varsity Girls v STEM 12:30 at Ingraham
- JV Boys v STEM 1:30 at Jane Addams
- JV Girls v Pathfinder 12:15 at Jane Addams

Seattle's Museum of Pop Culture is sponsoring a writing contest. Journey to other worlds and explore your wildest imaginations through MoPOP's sci-fi and fantasy short story contest. Details can be found at

<https://www.mopop.org/programs/programs/write-out-of-this-world/>

Something to Ponder

Shoebills , that live in the swamps of eastern tropical Africa, are frightening birds. Look it up!

Among other things, they are five feet tall, hunt large fish and baby crocodiles in a terrifying yet effective manner, make machine-gun-like clacking noises around their nests and to greet other birds, and poop on their own legs to stay cool.

More information can be found on the Audobon Society's website
<http://www.audubon.org/news/the-shoebill-or-most-terrifying-bird-world>

Photos from Tim Flach/Tim Flach Photography Ltd./Abrams.